ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, moist, palatable and nutritious food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government."

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public."

A PROCLAMATION

Appointing Delegates to the Deep Water Convention.

Governor West yesterday issued the following proclamation:

TERRITORY OF UTAH,
EXECUTIVE OFFICE.

To all whom it may concern, greeting:
Know ye that, reposing special trust and confidence in the integrity and ability of William Goodwin and Aaron Kerr, of Logan; J. W. Guthrie, of Corinne; R. H. Jones, of Brigham City; P. H. Emerson and J. W. McNutt, of Ogden; James Glendinning, Fred Auerbach, W. W. Riser and E. D. Hoge, of Salt Lake City; William M. Perry, of Park City; John M. Young, of Salt Lake City; Harry Haynes, of South Cottonwood; C. E. Allen, of Bingham; S. K. Harman and A. S. Sutcliffe, of Provo; C. N. Lund, of Ephraim; A. J. P. Beauman, of Mount Pleasant; W. H. Seegmiller, of Richfield; Fred G. Whits, of Salina; James Lowe, of Beaver; John Williams, of Milford; James S. Leander, of Silver Reef; and D. C. Robbins, of Price, I, Caleb W. West, Governor of the Territory of Utah, do hereby appoint them to be delegates to represent the Territory of Utah at the International Deep Water Convention, to be held in the city of Denver, Colorado, on August 28, 1888, to take action looking to the establishment of a deep water port or ports on the Texas coast.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the grand seal of the Territory of Utah to be affixed at Salt Lake City this sixteenth day of August, A. D. 1888.

CALB W. WEST, Governor.
W. M. C. HALL,
Secretary of Utah Territory.

How It was Done.

to the Editor of THE HERALD.

The Liberal party, for rather, the bigoted and illiberal part of that party, are extremely jubilant over their success in the recent election, and the namesake of the immortal Jewish historian assumes that "too much praise cannot be accorded to some nine named gentlemen." When we read between lines we learn that these nine gentlemen were superintendents, or bosses, in the mines and mills, and that they exercised a strict surveillance of every voter, having told them what ticket they were expected to vote, and also that they could vote the other ticket, but that they had plenty of time checks. In one or two cases the chosen ticket of the voter was taken from his hand and the Liberal ticket substituted with the remark that that was the ticket for him to vote. At the Ontario Mill where no restriction was placed upon the voters, the four of the People's candidates received a majority. At the Ontario and Daly mines the results would undoubtedly have been nearly the same had it not been for the intimidation of voters. The Daly management is especially notorious for its bulldozing practices. The miners are not to blame, for upon labor and the food it produces life depends. What will not a man give for his life? The theory of Liberal government as held by its managers is a government of the bosses, by the bosses and for the bosses. The United States Commissioner and deputy registrar spent the day in going from poll to poll, destroying the tickets that did not contain his name. In which of his two offices he acted in this dignified performance is not known, but as he is a doubly sworn United States officer, no one dared to protest against such vandalism, for fear of being considered disloyal to the government.

Two stalwart Democrats, David Condon and Charles Street, advocated the Jeffersonian doctrine, that honesty and capacity are the essential qualifications for office, and have been severely anathematized by the believers in the Liberal Creed as taught by Col. Ferry, which is, "If your convention should nominate the devil it would be your duty to vote for him." I believe some of the nine gentlemen referred to used no dishonorable influence at the election, but of others the half has not been told.

As regards the Liberals not polling a full vote, I rather think that many absent ones were voting as usual by name, but in examining the lists I found about fifty that I knew to be present, and I do not know of any one-fourth the population, and many are temporarily away.

LIBERAL.
PARK CITY, August 14, 1888.

The Franklin Arrest.

I send below further particulars of Edmund Buckley's arrest and his examination before Commissioner Bueby, of Blackfoot. On Thursday night at 10 o'clock they left here on the train for Blackfoot. On Friday he was placed in jail, as he could not get an examination until Monday. Mr. Buckley, when arrested, did not understand the charge for which he was held, and gave the officers to understand that he was guilty. At his examination when the charge was read to him, which was of cohabitation with one Alice Buckley and Joanna Buckley, from June 1st, 1888, up to the time of his arrest, he denied it and plead not guilty to the charge, as he had not seen Joanna for a year. When he plead this the officers telegraphed to an officer in Blackfoot to get witnesses, so he got two of Buckley's children and took them to Blackfoot. William L. Webster, of Franklin, also went there in Buckley's behalf, and did all he could for him. At the examination Buckley was persuaded to change his plea of not guilty to guilty; so, by the consent of Mr. Woods, of Boise, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, and the court, Mr. Buckley plead guilty. He was then placed under bonds, in the sum of $1,500, and the two children, $300. William L. Webster, of Franklin, and E. Burgoyne, of Montpelier, were their bondsmen. They have to appear before the grand jury at the October term of court at Blackfoot. The officers acted gentlemanly, all of them, and Mr. Buckley feels grateful. He arrived home this morning. N. Army Telegraph Operators Meet.

Chicago, August 16.—It was a jolly, merry, heart-beating crowd which thronged the decks of Captain David Cochran's steamer, the John A. Dix, this afternoon. The representatives of two great eras in the history of the United States had been tendered an excursion on Lake Michigan by the local association, and it was not at all inappropriate that at least one of the organizations present should take its outing on a boat named after one who had said that instant death alone could atone for any disrespect for the American flag. The crowd on this occasion was composed of the representatives of the Old Time Telegraph Operators and the United States Military Telegraph Corps of the civil war. They were for two days have met together in joint session for the furtherance of good fellowship. The first of these organizations represents the entire telegraph service of the Union Pacific during the first twenty years of its existence. It includes in its membership the boys who handled the first crude instruments in the time of their invention by Morse. When the armies of the Union swept across the vast country, some waded the far west along the Mississippi; some marching on the Atlantic and others fighting on the bloody field in Virginia. It was necessary to keep in secret communication with headquarters in Washington, this could only be done by means of the telegraph. Each army had its corps of telegraphers with it and their duties were particularly arduous. They worked early and late, receiving and sending dispatches, translating ciphers, and keeping in constant communication with detached corps and with headquarters. Sometimes the operator was exposed to peculiar dangers. Often during retreat of the army, he and his fellows would be left in the rear exposed to the enemy until the last moment in order to take advantage of any hope which might be sent in the way of intelligence that reinforcements were at hand. The operator climbed the telegraph poles, and connecting his instruments to a wire would hold communication while exposed to fire from the rebel sharpshooters. He slept in swamps and laid his life down on the battlefield as bravely as the noblest soldier; but the peculiar responsibility of the service lay with the cipher operators. There were about five of these in Washington, and each General had one with him. The cipher operator received and interpreted dispatches of the most momentous nature. Often he had the password long in advance of the time when it was to be used. M. E. Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee, had the password of the corps with which he was connected for weeks in advance, when not even the general of the army knew it.

During the great civil struggle, over 15,000 miles of wire were in operation and over 13,000,000 messages were estimated to have been sent, about 1,200 operators were employed and nearly 300 were killed, wounded or captured on the field of battle. Through the efforts of General Rosenkrantz a bill was introduced in the House which recognized their services during the war and made propositions for pensions. This was referred and referred to the committee of the House, and finally was passed with the exception of the pension clause. More delay resulted, and finally it got to the Senate, where now, with the exception of any pension provision, it awaits passage by that body. Among the many present in Chicago now are the following: R. B. Woolsey, R. A. Taylor, E. L. Norcross, R. W. Dugan, George M. Dugan, J. H. White, R. McKenzie, W. W. Smith, W. H. Cruise, W. H. Woodruff, Charles Newton, W. J. Dealey, manager of the New York branch of the Western Union, John Brant, T. B. Fuller, Joseph Knittler, R. G. Stephenson, L. Johns, A. L. Wives, T. Finckan, E. M. Tomlinson, R. J. Hutchinson, James D. Kied, C. C. Hine, D. K. Smith and other gentlemen from all points of the Union, who hold positions of responsibility and trust in the various localities in which they reside.

This morning the "Old Timers" had a brief session, choosing the following officers: President, Col. Charles Taylor, Frankfort, Kentucky; vice president, Day J. Smith, Kansas City; secretary and treasurer, William J. Dealey, New York. The next annual meeting will be held in Louisville, Kentucky, during the third week in September, 1889. After the return from the excursion, both organizations sat down to a banquet at Kinley's.

Boulanger.

PARIS, August 16.—General Boulanger, arrived at Abbeville to-day. He went to the cemetery for the purpose of putting a wreath upon the tomb of Admiral Corbett. He was accompanied by a large party, but the police at the entrance of the cemetery would not allow them to go in with Boulanger and he was compelled to enter alone. Upon leaving the cemetery General Boulanger addressed the crowd which had gathered. A row followed and the gen. d'armes dispersed the rioters. A large number of arrests were made.

Peace Convention

MYSTIC, Conn., August 16.—Miss Deller Stewart Parnell, addressing the national convention of the Universal Peace Union Association, avowed full sympathy with the peace meeting and said the rules of the party always acted on peace principles. Replying to a question she noted the bad known secrets of the home rule party from the start, and the London Times' charges that Parnell and his colleagues have conspired for assassination or violence are to her personal knowledge outrageously false.

The Bar Association.

SARATOGA, August 16.—At to-day's session of the American Bar Association a discussion was had on the report of the commercial law made last year on the subject of the adoption by Congress of laws about commercial paper and on other subjects.
